

While the company declares a crisis, a significant portion of its income continues to flow into the pockets of Cuba's military structures.

Empresa de Telecomunicaciones de Cuba S.A (ETECSA) is the monopoly telecommunications provider in Cuba, owned by the Cuban government. Since December 2018, they have offered mobile data ...

Of the 5,600 that exist in the country, which are responsible for replicating the telephone signal, half do not have generators. That is, when there ...

The electrical crisis in Cuba is collapsing telecommunications. ETECSA, lacking energy support at its radio bases, suggests using only 2G for calls and Transferm&#243;vil.

En ETECSA trabajamos para satisfacer las expectativas de nuestros clientes, por una sociedad m&#225;s y mejor conectada con soluciones del mundo digital.

In 1993, two years after the collapse of the Soviet Union, the state authorized the creation of Cuba's Telecommunications Company, ETECSA (Empresa de Telecomunicaciones de Cuba S.A.).

Cuba's telecoms company ETECSA said on Wednesday that it had begun to restore cellular service following an outage that appeared to impact various parts of the capital Havana and ...

In the first months of 2025, Santiago de Cuba has seen at least 17 cell towers vandalized, many of which were recently installed. These attacks occur in both urban and rural ...

Cuba's national monopoly telco, Etecsa (Empresa de Telecomunicaciones de Cuba) is chronically starved of the foreign currency which it needs to buy telecom infrastructure equipment, ...

Vandalism acts against telecommunications infrastructure in Cuba, such as cell towers, are considered sabotage crimes under Article 125 of the new Penal Code. The penalties for these crimes ...

Of the 5,600 that exist in the country, which are responsible for replicating the telephone signal, half do not have generators. That is, when there is a power outage, they stop working and, ...

Web: <https://busydoniemiecwaldii.pl>